

If the virus can last so long on dry surfaces, what happens if I unknowingly come in contact with a cat with

Written by ilabz

Monday, 17 November 2008 09:17 -

Most household soaps, detergents and disinfecting agents will kill the virus. Make sure you wash any part thoroughly that has come in contact with the cat (don't forget your pants if the cat rubbed up against you). Bleach in a 1:32 solution is suggested for decontamination purposes.